Anne is an experienced coaching professional with a wide breadth of coaching experience across a range of private and public organisations at middle, senior, CEO and Board level. Anne's experience gained in a diverse range of national and multinational businesses and broad industry exposure provides a significant benefit to her coaching clients through her knowledge of leadership and organisational issues and those systemic factors which impact organisations, teams and leaders. Her roles in multinational companies involved her in a variety of international projects that addressed Asia/Pacific regional leadership development, organisational change, organisation development and business planning. Anne has provided HR leadership in a number of mergers, takeovers and acquisitions. Selected companies include Dun & Bradstreet, Fisher Scientific, Australian Solutions Group, Royal Melbourne Institute of technology.

Anne's coaching approach is solution focused working with clients to set goals, compile action plans and develop practical strategies to monitor and evaluate progress. She does this by collaborating with clients to explore and challenge their options and develop their capacity for self-reflection and insight development.

Specific coaching assignments have included programs for leaders in Victoria's largest electricity distributor, Telstra, Australian Federal Police, Queensland Health, Mars, Victorian health sector, Melbourne City Council, Toyota, Melbourne & Olympic Park Trust, several multinational IT companies together with first tier professional services firms and the manufacturing, FMCG, higher education (Melbourne and regional based), local government and resources sectors. Previous assignments include Manager, Career Services for the former Mt Eliza Business School providing coaching services for MBA students. Anne is also a feedback specialist and executive coach for Melbourne Business School.
